HINT TO FATHERS.
At eight or nine, if you're wise,
Sit still and seldom run.
Had weariness within his eyes,
Like you, he'd be a man.
And if he ate with proper grace,
The best of manners knew,
Washed willingly his hands and face,
He'd be as old as you.

Though fond of candy, cake and pie,
If he were strong of will,
And let a little satisfy —
Least much should make him ill —
When playing, if he didn't shriek,
As youngsters often do,
But always softly thought to speak,
He'd be as old as you.

Time was you raced the place about,
With strength and ardor fired,
And just as loudly used to shout,
Time was you seldom tired.
Why now command in manner grim
A grownup he should be?
Remember, you were just like him
When you were young as he.

THE WORLD'S HOPE

Faint stirrings of optimism as to the fate of the world have been noticed lately in public utterances and in the public prints. Not so many months ago, a generally gloomy picture of the future was accepted in circles whose edicts mold opinion. It was thought that war was certain and not far off, or in the event that it could be staved off, a state of armed truce between the representatives of two ideologies was considered the alternative.

The results of recent election in Europe have had a cheering effect upon observers, and the return to this country of thoughtful travelers bearing the news of democratic leanings among many groups of Europeans has helped to leaven the cold lump of pessimism. Close study of European conditions by the President's Committee on Foreign Aid has brought forth the following statement from their report:

"A European recovery program is an investment in the continued survival of a world economically stabilized and peacefully conducted, in which governments, based on fundamental democratic principles, can prosper; in which right, not might, prevails, and in which religious freedom, economic opportunity and individual liberties are maintained."

The achievement of such a world is well worth putting forth the best effort of every citizen and the sacrifice of many worth-while immediate advantages.

CONSERVE AND CONSUME

A new form of merchandizing is sweeping the country. This is direct mail solicitation from fruit growers, citrus companies in Florida, California and Texas, apple and pear orchardists in the northwest. Likewise distributors of candy, olives, figs, nuts, dates are sending out strong endorsements of their products. The possibility of such edibles being used as Christmas gifts is increasing the ardor of the advertisers just now, but they have been mailing elaborate brochures all fall.

On the one hand official America is urging food conservation, and on the other, tremendous pressure, greater than ever before, is being extended by clever selling techniques to increase consumption of certain food items. These are in the luxury class, packaged expensively, not to say extravagantly.

Strange, isn't it, how currents so often work at cross purposes in America, the great land of freedom and inconsistency! In this case, however, there is no real contradiction. We are urged to hold back a little on foods easily shipped, especially grain, but we are urged at the same time to eat freely of other foods, potatoes, for example, to mention a more lowly item than those above. Some of the luxury foods do not bear shipping, but as Christmas presents here at home they are delightful.

NOISES AFTER MIDNIGHT

To be alone in the house and awake after midnight is to become acquainted with the house's other self, maybe its real self. Once the village clock has finally sounded out that last slow twelfth stroke, an eerie spirit creeps out from dark corners and high cupboards go to dancing stealthily through each room, and up and down the stairs. Hark! to the creaks it makes. A floor-board gives, as if under a foot. A faintly discernible gnawing comes from somewhere, but where? Now there is muffled thump. What could that possibly have been? A sound like that of a door bangs ever so gently, far off, yet inside the house somewhere. The cat suddenly becomes restless and prowls unhappily from room to room, wary, wide-eyed as if listening, too.

It is the house having its little joke, throwing off its stall and proper daytime silence. To know your house you must sit up with it, just you and it, when the clock hands are moving through the small hours, the black hushed hours before dawn comes with its rush and realism. What a lot those folks miss who go early to bed!

FULL STEAM AHEAD

The subject matter of President Truman's speech to the Congress at the opening of the special session was hardly news. It had been completely anticipated by most Americans. He asked for the stop-gap appropriation to keep France, Italy and Austria from starving this winter. Then he asked for various controls.

Senator Taft's opposition to the controls was anticipated also.

The important thing is that both Democrat and Republican agreed on the stop-gap legislation to feed hungry Europe. There is little doubt that the Congress will pass it.

The controls are a different matter. A few allocations and priorities taken at the sources are doubtless reasonable and some of them will probably be arranged. But consumer controls are too difficult, and in peacetime too dangerous in their setting of precedent, to get much enthusiasm from Americans.

The food for Europe gets strong approval from ordinary citizens. We do not like to have people go hungry while we have food enough and to spare. Nor do we relish what may come if we do not provide it.

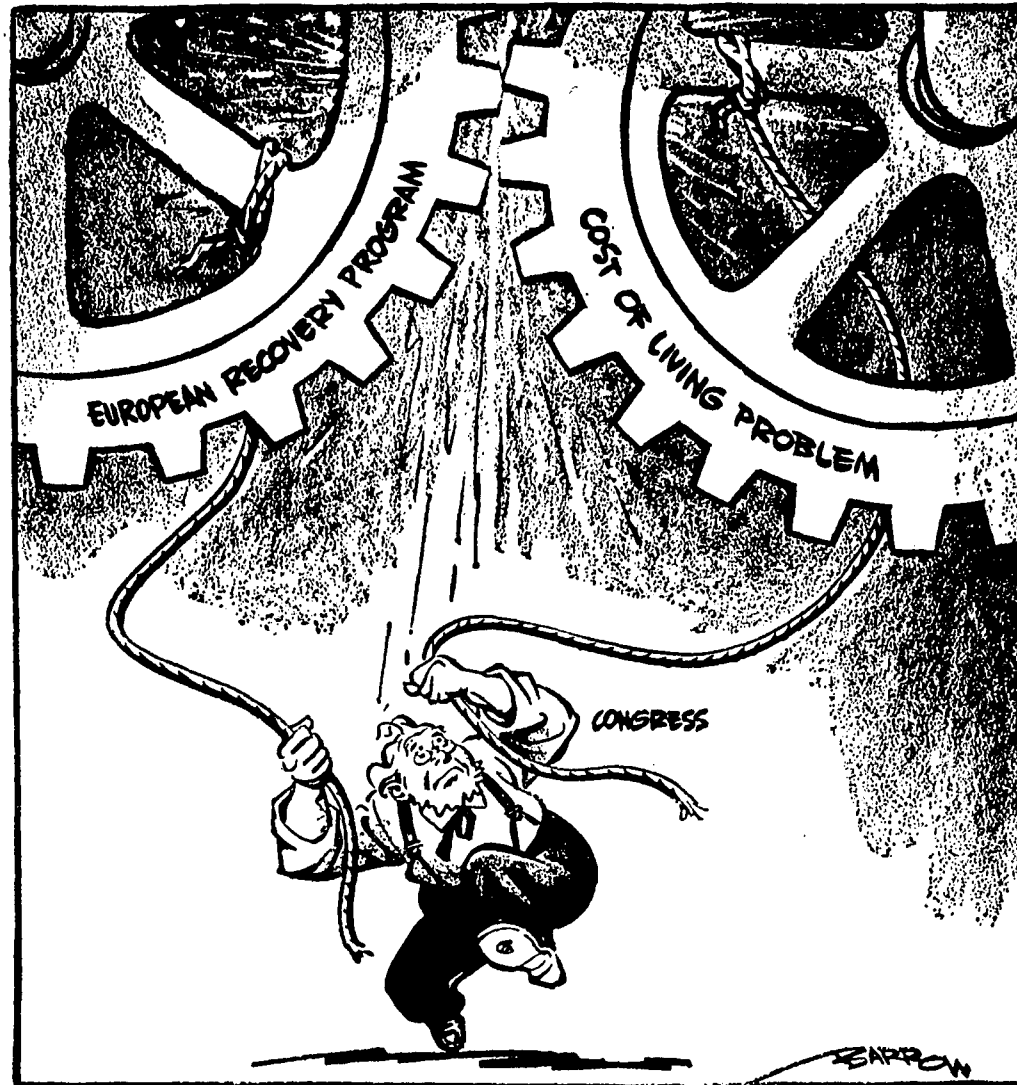

It's important to move on this matter. Let's have full steam ahead.

PRIZE CONTESTS

Modern advertising has gone all out for prize contests. Take up any newspaper, thumb it through and count them. And as for the radio—! Send a box top of the item under discussion, along with a 25 word statement as to why you prefer Aunt Elinor's cake flour or the Tootsie Wootsie can opener above all other cake flours and can openers, and you qualify for hundreds of prizes that range all the way from a mink coat to a wrist watch. Of course if you have a mink coat and don't need a wrist watch, you could give the prize to your mother-in-law.

It sounds like such an easy way to get rewards that it is not surprising to learn how many hundreds of people these days make more or less a business out of entering contests. Books are published on never-fail directions for winning the prizes. In the old days the young used to compete at the Olympic games for the Grecian laurel wreath. The Olympics were an advertising device, too, propaganda for keeping Greek youth interested in physical fitness. Present-day contests are a bit different, one has to admit, but the idea is not new.

CLASHING GEARS

People love to try for prizes.

But can't they learn that the money for these prizes comes out of the consumer? There is no such thing as something for nothing, but people keep on hoping that there is. Advertisers might learn, too, that while a prize contest may get a flock of floating buyers, nothing but quality of product can keep them.

HOSEGOW SHORTAGE

When the housing shortage extends to jails, it is serious. Many large cities, reports the American Municipal Association, have hosegows that were built in and for the good old days. Since then city population has increased considerably, and jail accommodation has not. Thus the Los Angeles jail, built to serve 850 prisoners, now has 1,770. Proceeds of a recently voted bond issue are to be used for enlarging and modernizing it.

Another way to tackle the problem is seen in Chicago. There night courts and week-end courts are proposed to speed up the turn-over in prisoners, and make it unnecessary to hold them until the court finds it convenient to be in session.

Nearly all large cities and many small ones have inadequate jails, either because they are too small or because they are so built as to breed disease and crime. It would pay good citizens to see what kind of jail accommodation their town provides.

TOO MUCH EDUCATION

Universal education, commonly thought an ideal project, may be the ruin of China, says Lin Yutang, the Chinese philosopher and writer. The trouble is that every educated Chinese thinks that he should be a member of the governing class. But, as Lin Yutang says, "How are we going to provide posts for 450,000,000 educated men?"

Germany suffered from a like trouble for many years. University education was widely distributed and opportunities for its use sharply limited. It was not uncommon to see a doctor of philosophy driving a taxi. He was discontented, and a multitude of such discontents helped bring on the Nazi revolution.

No one who really wishes an education in literary and historical subjects should be denied it. He should be taught, however, that manual labor, skilled or unskilled, has just as much dignity and importance as a white-collar work. If his talents lie in that direction, that is the work he should do.

The Chinese should take a leaf from the book of the American farmer. He reads good books, listens to good music, goes to good shows, his family has a good home with electric lights, good plumbing and labor-saving equipment. His education enriches his personal and business life, and he would not change places with any one on earth.

It's when education is thought of as giving a man a peculiar position above his fellows that such difficulties as those in China and Germany have occurred. When all have access to the best in education and culture, there is no lower level, no "menial" work. In America, the plumber goes to the art exhibition; the house-helper belongs to a bridge club.

Why not?

FRIENDSHIP AND FREEDOM

That was a great few minutes when the Friendship Train crammed with gifts of food for hungry people overseas stood side by side with the Freedom Train near Harrisburg, Pa. Drew Pearson, responsible for the Friendship Train, expressed it by saying "the Heart of America there met the History of America."

Indeed, all Americans who contributed by deed or even by friendly thought alone to the Friendship Train should always remember that without the history represented by the precious documents on the Freedom Train, there would be no America rich in goods, in deeds, in generosity to all the world to provide the Food for Friendship.

It took faith to start our nation along the path to freedom. It took work and sacrifice. Can we still furnish faith, works and sacrifice to start a world toward freedom? We can, and we will.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is traditionally a day to be thankful. Though many Americans may not think it, they have great occasion for gratitude. We have escaped war, and our home problems are not out of hand. While prices are rising in a disturbing fashion, that is partly offset by the quiet on the labor front. Housing, despite many lavish promises, is still largely conspicuous by its absence; but production in other fields is increasing, causing hope that this may happen in housing also.

The witty Abbe Sieves, a prominent figure in the French Revolution, was asked how he got along during it. He replied drily, "I survived." The United States has not done as well as was hoped last Thanksgiving, but it has done better than was feared. And there can be no doubt that it has survived.

Thanksgiving Day is a time to be conscious of such comforts as survival—and to determine to deserve them.

Obviously if Russia can bar Americans from her country, Americans can likewise bar Russians. But it is well not to be too quick about such serious matters. There are two points here: 1. We are not in the business of using totalitarian methods. 2. We have nothing to conceal.

New York City, desperate over the parking situation, is going to use part of the World's Fair parking lot for free storage of cars. Drivers will then have to take the subway in. The mystery is why anyone attempts to drive or keep a car in downtown Manhattan.

The United States has plenty of traffic hazards, but nothing like that reported by a traveler who has just returned from Africa. He had to put on his emergency brakes to keep from running into an elephant.

"Moral character urged in student" says a headline. Good idea. And while we're about it, why not add a dose of moral character for a lot of other people.

SMU Champ Of Southwest Loop In Spite Of Tie

By WUBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff.

The Southwest conference champion was neatly packaged and shipped as all but three teams waited for next year.

A wild 19-19 tie with Texas Christian last week gave the undefeated Mustangs the title. They finished a half-game ahead of Texas.

Three of the seven conference teams have bowl dates New Year's Day.

Three in bowls. Southern Methodist plays undefeated untied Penn State in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas; Texas plays Alabama in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, and Texas Christian meets Mississippi in the Delta Bowl at Memphis, Tenn.

Texas finished the year with nine victories and one defeat when it blasted Texas A. and M., 32-13. Thanksgiving Day.

Arkansas, co-champion and Cotton Bowl representative, landed in sixth place in the standings this time with one victory, one tie and four losses.

Rice, the other co-champion and an Orange Bowl contestant last season, finished third in the loop on a 3-4-6 win over Baylor last week to end with a four-two-nothing record in conference play.

Baylor finished last. Baylor, which won only one conference game, finished last while Texas Christian held down fourth place on two wins, three losses and a tie.

All-America Doak Walker, who kept the Mustangs undefeated by setting up the final touchdown in the last moments of play, topped individual scorers with 87 points.

The three touchdowns he scored against Southern Methodist boosted him to 100 points in the final standings.

The University of Texas will not practice until Dec. 8 and Texas Christian will wait until Dec. 15.

Brief In Yarber's Suit Seeking To Force Ouster Of Sen. Taylor Filed

WACO, Nov. 29—(Sp)—The brief in the case of Robert V. Yarber vs. Beauford H. Jester, governor of Texas, mandamus, appealed from the 13th Judicial District Court, Navarro county, was filed in the clerk's office of the Court of Civil Appeals Saturday, it was revealed.

The submission date is January 8, 1948, the clerk stated. Yarber, a University of Texas student resident of Corsicana, sought unsuccessfully to force the governor, also a Corsicanan, to call a special session of the Texas legislature by mandamus for the purpose of hearing impeachment proceedings against James E. Taylor of Kerens, state senator from the district embracing Navarro and adjoining counties, after he failed to resign his senatorship following his acceptance of the director of public relations for the Texas Manufacturers association.

The attorney general's department represented the governor before District Judge A. P. Mays in Corsicana while the plaintiff, who is not an attorney, conducted his own case.

The record on appeal was filed in the appellate court several weeks ago.

Breckenridge Bi-District Foe; Tigers Beat Cleburne While Temple Downs Waco

By TALMADGE CANANT
Sun Sports Staff

The madhouse 10-AA football race ended Friday night and the Corsicana Tigers, virtually out of the running a week ago, are the possessors of the district crown. The Tigers crushed Cleburne 34-12 in Cleburne Friday night, and the Temple Wildcats defeated Waco 13-7 to knock the McLennan county Tigers out of the running.

Corsicana will go into bi-district play for the first time in 13 years, meeting Breckenridge, the winner of district 9.

Corsicana's game with Cleburne was over, and the fans who followed the Tigers to Cleburne were driving home when the report of the Temple win came over the radio. It was the second upset within a week that went in the favor of Corsicana's Tigers. Hillsboro upset Waxahachie Wednesday, to break up the three-way tie, and Corsicana won over Cleburne and Temple beat Waco to break the two-way deadlock.

Corsicana scored early in its tilt with the scrappy little Cleburne boys, getting a touchdown in the first few minutes of play. From there until the end of the first half, however, the Tigers were in a continual hot water as the Yellow Jackets proceeded to threaten time after time.

Shapley Gets Fumble
Mash intercepted for Corsicana. On Cleburne's first play from scrimmage the Jackets fumbled, and Tiger tackle Bill Shapley covered it on the jacket 32 to give Corsicana possession. Mash, Burkhardt, Bowen and Clark pushed the ball to the Cleburne 1 yard line and June Clark hit center for the score from the 10. The conversion failed, but the Jackets converted his 18th consecutive placement and the Tigers led 7-0.

Cleburne fought the remainder of the quarter deep in its own territory, but the little Jackets came back strong in the second quarter, taking a gain to the Corsicana 45 on an exchange of punts. Sonntag and Jones alternated to drive to the Tiger 20, but Cleburne drew a holding penalty to the 45, and its drive started over again. Cleburne kept the ball deep in Tiger territory for the remainder of the half, driving to the Tiger 15. Corsicana's line held there, however, and took over the ball on downs just before the half ended.

Statistics during the first half heavily favored the Cleburnians, although Corsicana held the scoring edge.

Bands Shine
Corsicana's band drew the plaudits of the crowd as it demonstrated its accurate drills during halftime, and the Cleburne band showed its wares during the period.

The Tigers came back with a fury in the third quarter. June Clark took the kickoff on the Tiger 15, followed a torrent of interference up the center of the field, out to the left sideline and turned on the steam to go 85 yards for a touchdown. Burkhardt converted his 19th straight.

Cleburne then went to work. Little Robert Walker took a pass from Junell and went 55 yards to the Corsicana 15 before Mash

LOCAL ELEVEN ENDS
SEASON IN FIRST
DIVISION OF LOOP

By TALMADGE CANANT

The Navarro Bulldogs finished the 1947 grid season by breaking out in a rash of razzle-dazzle to bury the Weatherford Junior College Coyotes 34-0, Thursday afternoon on Tiger Field. The win enabled the Bulldogs to salvage the major part of their season after an unsuccessful start, and end up in the first half of the standings in the northern zone of the Texas Junior College Athletic conference.

It was the fifth win of the season for the Bulldogs. They won five, lost three and tied one to finish the season with a percentage of .611.

The Navarro boys went for touchdowns the first two plays they ran. They kicked off to the Coyotes and blocked the visitors' fourth down punt to recover on the Weatherford 34. On the first play from scrimmage Charlie Smith circled right end to score, and Jack Holland converted.

Weatherford again received, could not gain, and punted out on their own 42. On the first play Harold Bryant went through a gaping hole in left tackle and went all the way for a score behind a scythe of blocking from his mates. Holland converted perfectly.

Still in the first quarter, J. C. Collier and Harold Bryant alternated in carrying the mail to take the ball from midfield to the Coyote 26. From there Collier scooted through tackle for the score. Holland made it three conversions in a row and the score stood 21-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Anderson Scores
Milton Vinson was headed for pay dirt early in the second quarter, but he was generally slow in carrying the mail to take the ball up and they lost the ball via a fumble on the Weatherford 23. Luke Thornton saved the thrust when he intercepted a Coyote pass on the next play on the 32. From there Danny Anderson got off on a 32 yard jaunt for a score as his mates moved down the tacklers. Holland missed his conversion.

Most of the second and third quarters were recorded with Sparky Adams, Pete Willard, Jimmy Baggett and others doing some fancy ball-lugging. The Bulldogs drove to the Weatherford 1 on one occasion where they lost the ball on a fumble. On another occasion Danny Anderson got off for a 35 yard scamper for a score, but it was nullified when the Bulldogs drew a clipping penalty.

Weatherford made its most serious threat of the afternoon. Lowe intercepted a Navarro pass and ran it back to the Navarro 35, where the Bulldogs drew an off-sides penalty. Lowe made it first down on the 22, but Wickizer fumbled and Navarro recovered on its own 19 and end the drive.

Navarro's first string came back in and Collier got off on a 31 yard gallop to midfield. A pass from Smith to Gilmore was good on the Weatherford 16, and Bryant went to the 3. Smith, Anderson and Collier could get but one yard in three plays, but Smith circled on a fake hand-off on the last down and scored. Holland's conversion ended the game.

Weatherford's T formation bogged down early in the game. The Coyotes had to shift to single and double wing to function at all. The Navarro line and backfield solved the opposition plays before they were executed, and the Coyotes lost almost as much ground from scrimmage as they gained.

Fine Forward Wall
Navarro's entire forward wall looked as good or better than it ever has this year. Tackling Dick Little and Tommy Phillips did yeoman work for the locals, and their work in co-operation with Jim Boy Ivey and Henry Anderson at the guard slots was masterful.

Practically all the Bulldog squad saw action at one time or another during the game. A number of second stringers showed performance that will stand the Bulldogs in good stead next year.

J. C. Collier, Harold Bryant and Charlie Smith turned in their usual performances, and Alton Frost's blocking work was superb.

TRIBAL LEADER MAY BE EX-GL-The U. S. embassy in India investigated reports that Russell Haight (above), 26, former Army sergeant, is leading tribal raiders in fighting in Kashmir. Haight, who was a member of the Bengal went into intensive practice in preparation for their meeting with the Breckenridge Bulldogs. The game will be played on Tiger Field Friday afternoon at 2:30. There was not a word to what was to happen behind those gates, but whatever it is, it is good for the visiting Buc, champs of district 9, a loop that was almost as muddled as was district 10 right up to the final game.

With one exception, Corsicana made the week-end without serious injury.

Max Carter, ace Tiger end, went out with a chipped bone in his left leg, incurred in a practice session last week, and will be out for the remainder of the season. His leg is in a cast, and the spunky wingman has played his last game with the Tigers.

Otherwise the squad was in good shape Monday, Payne reported. There were the usual bruises incurred in the Cleburne game, but none were of a serious nature.

The Tigers, incensed at their almost total exclusion from consideration for all-district and all-state berths, will be out to show the pickers where they were wrong.

Corsicana scouted the Breckenridge Buc last week in their game with Cleburne, which the Buc won by a 25-6 score.

As usual, the Tigers will be outweighed, and the margin this time will be at least 15 pounds per man. That has been the case in almost every game the Tigers have played this year.

The Buc are described as a team that loves to pass, but can run the ground game with equal facility using the T and the double wing.

Their tackles weigh 107 and 103, respectively, and their guards weigh in at 177 and 174. Heaviest weight-carrier in the backfield is a kid by the name of Newberry, who tips the scales at 207 pounds and carries speed with his weight.

The Buc are coached by Cooper Robbins. The mentor has a son who is the center on the team.

Any country boys have been made for the Breckenridge team to stay at the Navarro Hotel here. They will arrive Thursday, and will work out on Tiger Field Thursday afternoon following the Tigers' workout. Their practice session will also be a closed affair.

Breckenridge was beaten twice during the season, by Wichita Falls, 21-0, and by Weatherford, 26-0. They were tied by Abilene 6-6. They hold wins over Paschal of Fort Worth, Graham, Stephenville, Ranger, Brownwood, Mineral Wells and Cisco.

The District 9-AA race ended with Breckenridge and Brownwood tied with one loss each, but the Buc won because of their previous win over the Brownwood team.

TIGER FIELD IS SITE OF BI-DISTRICT TILT ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

BUCS WILL OUTWEIGH
LOCALS; MAX CARTER
LOST TO HIGH SCHOOL

Coach Boyd Payne and his assistants took the newly-crowned District 10-AA champion Corsicana Tigers behind locked gates Monday at Tiger Field as the Bengals went into intensive practice in preparation for their meeting with the Breckenridge Bulldogs. The game will be played on Tiger Field Friday afternoon at 2:30. There was not a word to what was to happen behind those gates, but whatever it is, it is good for the visiting Buc, champs of district 9, a loop that was almost as muddled as was district 10 right up to the final game.

With one exception, Corsicana made the week-end without serious injury.

Max Carter, ace Tiger end, went out with a chipped bone in his left leg, incurred in a practice session last week, and will be out for the remainder of the season. His leg is in a cast, and the spunky wingman has played his last game with the Tigers.

Otherwise the squad was in good shape Monday, Payne reported. There were the usual bruises incurred in the Cleburne game, but none were of a serious nature.

The Tigers, incensed at their almost total exclusion from consideration for all-district and all-state berths, will be out to show the pickers where they were wrong.

Corsicana scouted the Breckenridge Buc last week in their game with Cleburne, which the Buc won by a 25-6 score.

As usual, the Tigers will be outweighed, and the margin this time will be at least 15 pounds per man. That has been the case in almost every game the Tigers have played this year.

The Buc are described as a team that loves to pass, but can run the ground game with equal facility using the T and the double wing.

Their tackles weigh 107 and 103, respectively, and their guards weigh in at 177 and 174. Heaviest weight-carrier in the backfield is a kid by the name of Newberry, who tips the scales at 207 pounds and carries speed with his weight.

The Buc are coached by Cooper Robbins. The mentor has a son who is the center on the team.

Bi-District Game Ticket Sales To Begin Tuesday

Tickets for the bi-district battles between the Corsicana Tigers, 10-AA titleholders, and the Breckenridge Buc, 9-AA titlists, on Tiger Field Friday afternoon at 2:30, will go on sale Tuesday morning, high school officials have announced.

The tickets will be on sale at the usual places: McAdams Pharmacy, P. and S. Pharmacy, Stop and Eat drive in, High School Drug Store, and the high school office.

R. A. Armistead, high school principal, said that general admission tickets will be priced at $1.25, and student tickets will sell for 50 cents.

Holders of season reserved seats may get their usual reserved seats by buying a general admission ticket and showing their season reserved seat ticket stub.

Armistead said. Those who have lost or destroyed their stubs may secure a replacement at the high school office, it asked for before Friday.

Student tickets will not be sold at the gate, it was announced. They will be sold on Friday only, and only at the high school office. College students and students from schools outside Corsicana must show evidence of enrollment in order to buy student tickets, it was emphasized.

Season ticket stub holders who know that they cannot attend the game are urged to give their stubs to others who can attend.

About 1,000 general admission and 600 student tickets are to be sold to Breckenridge Tuesday, Armistead said.

A Negro driver of a truck was jailed Saturday following a wreck at Collin St. and Highway 75. Police investigated in the wreck, a Port Worth resident, ignored a stop sign while going East on Collin and crashed into a 1937 Dodge going south of Highway 75. The car was driven by Horace Hays, 1029 North Benton St.

Officer Blakey found a 1942 Mercury which was stolen in Texas City Nov. 27 and abandoned here in the 1100 block of West Eleventh Avenue.

Saturday's arrests included two on charges of drunkenness, a man for sleeping in a public place.

Much Business Is Scheduled For City Commission

The extension of city limits, transfer of city bus franchise and calling of a municipal election were on the calendar Monday for the regular meeting of the city commission Tuesday afternoon.

Julius Jacobs, city attorney, said he was drawing an election call on two issues regarding firemen's and policemen's minimum pay and civil service coverage for them, two issues which must be submitted under state law.

Two ordinances already passed on the first reading extending the city limits to the east and west are up for second reading, if no changes are made.

The matter of transfer of the city bus franchise from Louis Joe Terrio, whose buses were wiped out in the recent flood, is on the agenda. Mr. Terrio is expected to be present.

TUESDAY CONSERVATION DINNER

Tomato Bouillon with Salted Crackers
Baked Fish Steaks
Baked Potatoes
Creamed Peas and Mushrooms
Green Salad with French Dressing
Baked Apple Slices
(Recipes for Starred Dish Follows)

Here's a recipe that makes green peas taste extra special. It does beautifully as a luncheon dish, too, served on crisp toast; and it's wonderful with cold sliced turkey and cranberry sauce for a holiday supper.

The quick-frozen peas called for in the recipe are a good buy now—you get the equivalent of 2 pounds of shelled fresh peas in a 12-ounce package. If you want to use fresh cooked or canned peas, however, substitute 2 cups of them for the frozen peas called for.

Creamed Peas and Mushrooms
1 package (12 ounce) quick-frozen peas
1 cup boiling water
1 cup pea liquor
4 tablespoons butter or soft margarine
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
Dash of salt
Dash of pepper

Drop frozen peas into briskly boiling water; bring to a boil again and boil 5 to 7 minutes or until just tender. Drain, reserving liquor; add milk to liquor to make 1 cup. Melt the butter or margarine in a large skillet and cook mushrooms for 2 or 3 minutes, stirring a few times. Sprinkle flour and seasonings over mushrooms and mix until mushrooms are well-coated. Gradually add pea liquor and milk, stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth. Turn heat to medium and, continuing to stir, cook mixture until it thickens and boils. Add peas and stir while heating thoroughly. 4 to 6 servings.

They returned with four bucks and two turkey gobblers.

Wayne Donaldson, Hop Teer, Homer Lee, and Henry Brown have returned from a deer hunt in Loyall Valley, between Mason and Fredericksburg. They brought back two bucks.

Self-Medication Has Its Limits

By W. P. BROWN
Of Johnson's Pharmacy

You may be one of those people who understand their own symptoms and know what to do about them. Perhaps at some time your doctor has explained to you what certain signs mean, and from there on in you have been doing a bit of self doctoring.

There are limits to this sort of thing, very definite limits. If the doctor has said that a certain diet is good for your Anemia, for example, it is well to adhere to his advice. But do not take this to mean that the same diet is to be followed slavishly for the rest of your life. Occasionally, go back to see the doctor and find out if the diet still holds good, or if further changes are indicated.

In short, a regular check-up with your physician pays good dividends in health. So does the selection of a trustworthy druggist.

were wounded—eight seriously—in two machinegun grenade attacks on buses traveling the Petah Tikva road southeast of Tel Aviv.

Another Jew was shot to death in the Arab city of Jaffa near the Tel Aviv municipal boundary.

The driver of the first bus, in which four passengers lost their lives, said three Arabs opened fire from an orange grove after two other Arabs stood in the road to halt the vehicle. Eight Jews were wounded.

Another bus, passing the same spot a half hour later was attacked by gunfire and grenades and one Jewish woman was killed. Six other passengers were injured.

Attacks on eight other buses were reported last night—seven of them in Haifa and one in Jerusalem.

There was one casualty, an Arab policeman, who was wounded in Haifa when he investigated an attack on one of the buses.

Jewish Settlement Attacked.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that Deraia, a Jewish settlement on the north shore of Galilee, was attacked during the afternoon.

Meanwhile at Acre Prison in Northern Palestine 16 Arabs were wounded slightly when guards opened fire on Arab prisoners attacking Jewish inmates. It was reported that two Arab prisoners escaped during the disorder.

Near Ramle two Jews were wounded when their car was fired upon.

Reliable Jewish informants said that Hagana, Jewish underground army estimated to have between 50,000 and 70,000 members, called for mobilization of all men and women from 17 to 35 beginning Dec. 5 for special "security" ranks.

Hagana also was reported to have called for all men 25 to 45 to enlist for "home guard duty" to protect communities.

Damascus Tense

DAMASCUS, Dec. 1.—(P)—Business in this Syrian capital was virtually at a standstill today as mobs protesting the U. N. decision to partition Palestine rioted through the streets in a continuation of demonstrations that claimed four lives yesterday.

The killings occurred during an attack on the Soviet cultural center and the nearby communist headquarters by a crowd of several thousand persons.

Ten others of the plane's passengers and crew members were in critical condition at Seattle and Renton hospitals. Several were not expected to live.

Bodies of two of the dead were not recovered until nearly four hours after the crash because of the intense heat emitting from the wreckage.

The plane, a DC-4 crashed only a few minutes after it had been turned back from an attempted landing at Seattle's Boeing Field by fog. Two airport employees in the control tower at the Seattle-Tacoma field said the ceiling radioed to Pilot James Evan Farris, Seattle as the plane settled through the overcast was "600 feet with one and one-quarter miles visibility." Secretary of State Marshall was reported to have decided to delay briefly the formal introduction of a set of American proposals for German unification and the steps leading up to creation of a central German government. However, it was understood he was prepared to set forth the American view orally at once if Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov continued to press for a Big Four commitment on early creation of a German government.

Luncheon Not Held

Considerable interest was aroused among American diplomats here by Molotov's failure to have luncheon with Marshall at the American embassy today. Soviet sources said Molotov merely declined Marshall's invitation for today, but expected to see him later in the week.

Molotov himself was reported to have invited British Foreign Minister Bevin to dinner at the Soviet embassy next Friday.

Need To Save Fats Stressed

Housewives who have kept steadily on with the fat-saving program, and others who are eager to cooperate, should know that their labors are not in vain, according to the latest statement of the American Fat Salvage Committee, Inc. Despite occasional local reports to the contrary, there is still a lack of the world's need for constant fat saving.

Sometimes in communities where fats and oils are produced there may be a sudden accumulation of these essentials, for a short period, and meat dealers may pay less or even discontinue fat collections. The condition does not last long. Available supplies give out shortly, even in these key locations, and conscientious housewives may be certain that the fat they turn back from their own kitchens will be processed and reused within 60 days, on the average.

MISS BETTYE JO ROBINSON, CHAS. J. DAVIS, JR., TAKE VOWS ON SATURDAY EVENING

The marriage of Miss Bettye Jo Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Robinson, to Chas. J. Davis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. J. Davis, was solemnized at First Methodist church on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, with the Rev. Erwin F. Bohmfalk as officiant for the double ring ceremony.

Southern smilax provided a decorative background for the massive urns of white plume chrysanthemums, which dominated the altar space. Myriad white tapers gleamed from floor candelabra, and additional white tapers and smilax outlined the chancel rail. Matching arrangements of white chrysanthemums defined the chancel entrance and wrought iron candelabra, holding white tapers and tied with white chrysanthemums and satin ribbons, marked family pews.

Miss Lena Mae McClure was at the organ for a prelude of melodies which included "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni, "Poeme" by Flibich, and "Theme" from "Sixth Symphony" by Tchaikowsky.

Miss McClure played accompaniments for Miss Frances David who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" by Murray and "At Dawn" by Cadman. "O Perfect Love" was used as background music for the ceremony, and upon completion of the service, Miss David sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. The traditional wedding marches were used as processional and recessional.

Given In Marriage by Father

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of frost white slipper satin, designed with high round neckline, sculptured bodice with tiny pearl buttons, a trim in the back, and long, light-fitting sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists. The design of silk illusion was enhanced with French lace, and the bouffant, bustle-draped skirt swept into a voluminous train. Her full-length veil of misty bridal illusion floated down from a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses, centered with a white orchid, and tied with streamers of white satin ribbon knotted with the lilac-valley.

Mrs. E. C. Granberry, Jr., of Corpus Christi attended her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Nora Gill of San Antonio, Mrs. W. D. Turner of Waco, and Miss Martha George and Mrs. W. B. Robinson served as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of Nile green tulle, fashioned with off-shoulder necklines, molded bodices, and bouffant skirts that fell over hoops and featured modified bustle backs. They wore matching tulle tulle gowns, and carried fan-shaped arrangements of American Beauty roses, set in puffs of Nile green and American Beauty satin, and tied with streamers of white satin ribbon knotted with the lilac-valley.

Dem-hits of American Beauty roses completed their ensembles.

The bride's mother wore a gown of grayish blue crepe embellished with rhinestones and crystal beads, a hat of pink ostrich feathers, short pink gloves, and a corsage of white roses, carnations, and chrysanthemums in an antique white wire cooler, and the white satin-iced double-ring wedding cake, embellished with a garland of white roses centered with a white orchid. Mrs. Ballard George had charge of the cake. Mrs. Paul Robinson dispensed frosted punch, and Mr. R. R. Cooke, III, presided at the ceremony.

A reception at Kinloch House followed the ceremony. The bride's table, illuminated by white tapers in glass holders, held a profusion of white roses, carnations, and chrysanthemums in an antique white wire cooler, and the white satin-iced double-ring wedding cake, embellished with a garland of white roses centered with a white orchid. Given In Marriage by Father

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of frost white slipper satin, designed with high round neckline, sculptured bodice with tiny pearl buttons, a trim in the back, and long, light-fitting sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists. The design of silk illusion was enhanced with French lace, and the bouffant, bustle-draped skirt swept into a voluminous train. Her full-length veil of misty bridal illusion floated down from a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses, centered with a white orchid, and tied with streamers of white satin ribbon knotted with the lilac-valley.

Mrs. E. C. Granberry, Jr., of Corpus Christi attended her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Nora Gill of San Antonio, Mrs. W. D. Turner of Waco, and Miss Martha George and Mrs. W. B. Robinson served as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of Nile green tulle, fashioned with off-shoulder necklines, molded bodices, and bouffant skirts that fell over hoops and featured modified bustle backs. They wore matching tulle tulle gowns, and carried fan-shaped arrangements of American Beauty roses, set in puffs of Nile green and American Beauty satin, and tied with streamers of white satin ribbon knotted with the lilac-valley.

Dem-hits of American Beauty roses completed their ensembles.

Captain John Davis of Wright Field, Ohio, was his brother's best man, and groomsmen were W. E. Robinson, W. D. Turner, Paul Turner, John Taylor, John McArthur, and John Ballard.

The bride's mother wore a gown of grayish blue crepe embellished with rhinestones and crystal beads, a hat of pink ostrich feathers, short pink gloves, and a corsage of white roses, carnations, and chrysanthemums in an antique white wire cooler, and the white satin-iced double-ring wedding cake, embellished with a garland of white roses centered with a white orchid. Mrs. Ballard George had charge of the cake. Mrs. Paul Robinson dispensed frosted punch, and Mr. R. R. Cooke, III, presided at the ceremony.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(By The Associated Press)

At tops for 1947 were American Smelting and Anaconda Wire & Cable, Favorsers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Anaconda, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, J. C. Penney, U. S.
